Dave,
We've had a
real blast together
this year. We've gone through a lot of work also. This summer we should try and make all the money we can. When you get your * Yamaha * & cc. well you a blast. Wish you had yours now.
We should be real good friends for a long time to come. Let's hope next year will be a little more prosperous. I hope Don't get into any trouble this summer. Spanish has been a real pull through alright

INTRODUCTION

Since the outset of civilization, man has lived in fear and awe of that which he couldn't comprehend. Earthquakes were explained as the vented wrath of an angry god; fire to early man was a demon.

Slowly, as understanding grew, doubt and apprehension were supplanted by assurance. Education is the means by which one gains assurance, for through education comes knowledge, and knowledge is understanding.

The ancient Greeks realized the importance of a varied education. Plato, as paraphrased by Mortimer Adler, said on this subject:

It follows that any society which abolishes the distinction of social classes and which calls all men to freedom, should conceive education as essentially liberal and for all men. It should, furthermore, direct education, in all its parts and phases, to the end of each man's living well . . .

ATHLETICS

Since long before the Panhellenic Games of the ancient Greeks, man has gained both joy and satisfaction from physical exertion. In today's modern mechanized world, the methods one has of expressing individuality are few. Through sports—modern man can express his individuality. Through athletics—man can find competition, teamwork, and leadership.

For the man sound in body and serene of mind there is no such thing as bad weather.

George Gissing

FINE ARTS

Each of the fine arts, whether it be painting, sculpture, music, or dance, has one aspect in common with every other art—each is a means of aesthetic communication. Through his individual mode and means of expression, the artist communicates his observations, impressions, and emotions to others in order that they too may have some part in the original creation.

LIBERAL ARTS

In a democracy, a liberal education should be of value to men and women both as private individuals and as free, self-reliant and responsible members of the community . . . It should help them, as individuals, to grow in self-mastery and personal depth, to develop wider and deeper appreciations, to acquire an enthusiasm for hard work, to love good talk and good books, to delight in the adventures of intellectual curiosity, to become fair-minded, open-minded, and generous in all their human responses

—Association of American Colleges

The fine arts never age because they are marked by genuine feeling. The language of the passions, the impulses of the heart, are always the same.

Eugene Delacroix

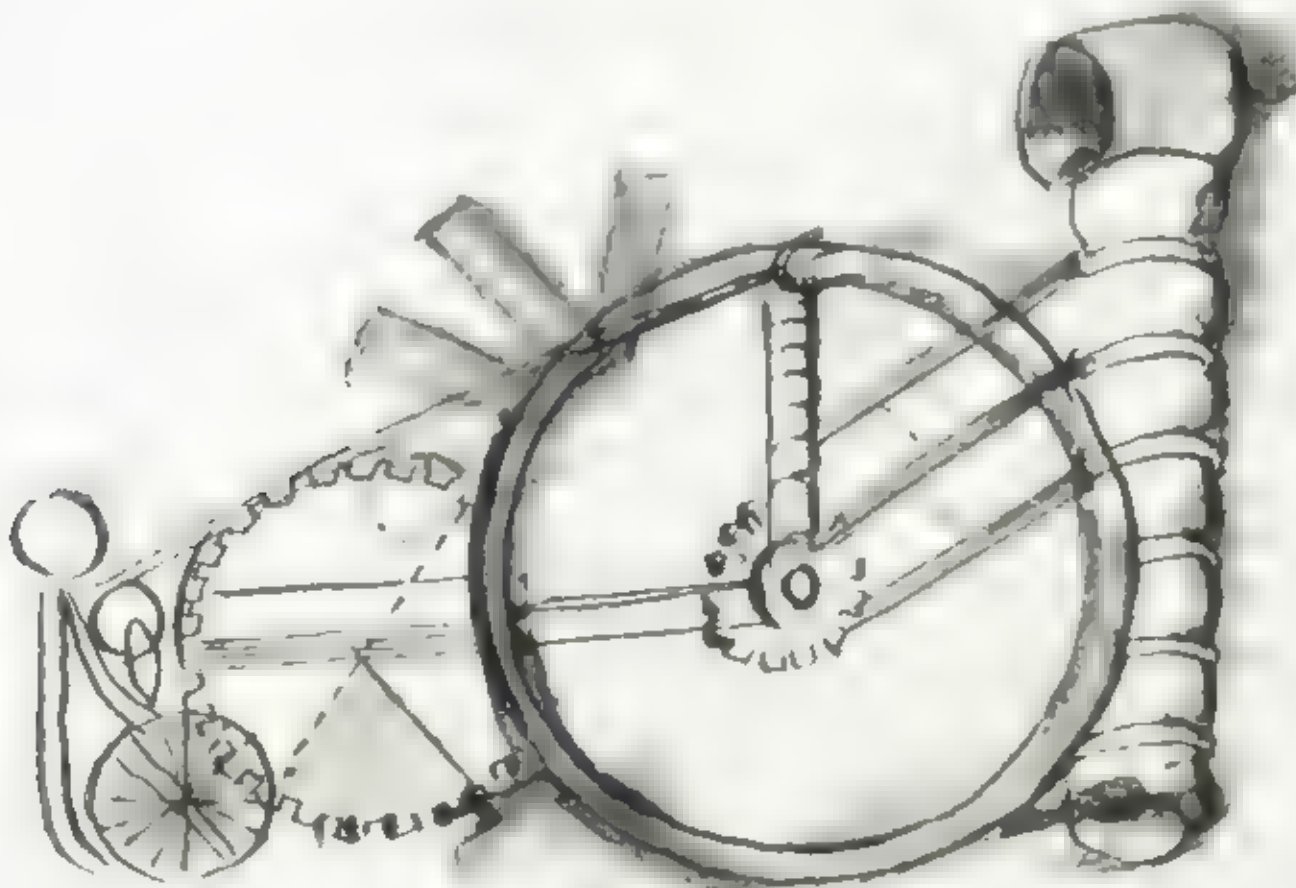

Man's himself plus the books he reads
Henry Fielding

VOCATIONAL ARTS

Darwin states that the ability and ease by which an organism can adapt to its environment determines its success in the struggle for survival. In the human world we are faced with the pressing situation of having to "adapt" or develop with our society. Man is one animal that must be capable of mentally changing with the times in order to survive. Education is the means by which man may learn to adapt and improve himself.

Education or learning takes two main forms, that which can be obtained indirectly or that which can be obtained through personal experience. In the vocational arts man learns to cope with the demands of his environment both indirectly and through personal experience or practical application. Preparing oneself to capably meet the environmental requirements of tomorrow's world is the essence of today's education.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

Since the beginning of recorded human history, man has looked about himself and wondered. "Man is a reasoning animal," stated the ancient Roman philosopher Seneca and it is this very reasoning power that has led man to seek the key to the regularities and the very existence of life itself.

The areas of math and science were developed through man's constant search for reasonable explanations. In the areas of math and science man has attempted, through inductive and deductive reasoning, to both understand and improve his environment. Man has developed theories and laws concerning his environment and himself. With each step man takes into the infinite unknown, whether it be the interior of the atom or all the universe, he builds upon the experiments, observations, theories, and laws he has gained in the field of math and science. With this knowledge man can find new formulas and laws—with these he can build the future.

DEDICATION

Mr. George Buonocore, in his generous concern for the student body, has served in the capacities of both sophomore counselor and Director of Student Activities. During the six year history of Blackford High School, his time and effort have been continually devoted to the students—encouraging not only high levels of academic attainment but promoting harmonious student-teacher relations as well.

More notable than these advisory services, however, have been Mr. Buonocore's contributions as an outstanding teacher. In a society daily more influenced by scientific advancement and technology, an elemental comprehension of this branch of human learning is essential to the well rounded and enlightened individual. Through his excellent instruction Mr. Buonocore has patiently transmitted to his students a basic knowledge and understanding of the world of science, thus helping to stimulate in them both logical and creative thought.

Therefore, to Mr. Buonocore—the teacher, the counselor, the scientist, and the man—we, the yearbook staff of 1967 gratefully dedicate this sixth edition of SAGA.

Aim at the sun, and you may not reach it, but your arrow will fly higher than if aimed at an object on a level with yourself.

ADMINISTRATION

May I congratulate you on this 1967 Yearbook which reveals so effectively the activities and interests of the students of Blackford High School. Your enthusiasm, spirit and energy are reflected throughout these pages

The Board of Trustees of the Campbell Union High School District joins me in expressing our hope that the efforts of the staff of the district to provide educational opportunities for you, both in the classroom and in your many activities, have resulted in stimulating many new ideas, incentives and goals. We are pleased to see evidence of high standards of academic performance and general excellence in the school.

To the graduating seniors of Blackford High School, I extend my best wishes for a successful and happy future in whatever endeavors you may pursue. We trust you will remember your years here at Blackford High School as a significant period of your life.

My hearty congratulations to the seniors in the class of 1967. It is highly probable that each of you has felt, at some time or other, that graduation seemed so terribly far in the future—now at last the long awaited day is near at hand. The time has come to gather together the results of your four years of effort and use these results as a sound foundation to your future success. May the knowledge and experience garnered at Blackford High School serve you well in your future.

COACH'S MESSAGE

The 1966 Blackford Braves fooled the experts. After being picked to finish in last place in the conference and being faced with the possibility of splitting their two practice games, the hard hitting Braves were able to compile a 4 3 2 record.

The season started with all positions wide open, to be filled by the young man with the most ability and a desire to work. There were surprises and disappointments in the battle for the various jobs. We feel that competition for positions made our season a success. Very few were secure in their jobs. There was always a competitor ready to take each position.

Although no title was won by the 1966 Braves, they were in contention all the way. We won our first two non league games and had some momentum going for us. Then for four weeks we were hurt by fumbles, interceptions, and penalties. Our opponents gained by taking advantage of the mistakes we made.

Our offensive unit had some problems maintaining consistency in moving the ball, yet Ron McGoughy, Jim Whiteside, and Duane Kubo did an excellent rushing job along with the receiving of Skip Adams and Jeff Momsen. However, it was the play of our defensive unit, led by Chuck Pottier, Bob Rose, John Bloomfield, and Tom Abraham that kept our opponents from moving the ball too well. Our defensive unit helped us score at least seven touchdowns in our last three games by taking the ball away from our opponents via fumbles, interceptions, or blocked kicks.

It is our hope that we developed a sense of PRIDE this past season which will carry on for many years to come. We can attribute our team success to a team effort. Most of our squad will return in 1967. We hope that the competition will continue to be strong for each position. No man can afford to let up or someone else will have his job. Our motto for next year is: He can who thinks he can.

THEME: AMPLIFICATION B.D. Smith, Editor

For every method of system, man device for amplification and for these ways better way of processing than in most cases, the better way to go to be covered that we will be able to find a greater and most powerful device for amplification.

With the coming of the era that will demand changes in the way we live, we will be able to find a better way of amplification and for these ways better way of processing than in most cases, the better way to go to be covered that we will be able to find a greater and most powerful device for amplification. # YOUTH FOR UNDERSTANDING

And I'm at home

If we take the first three lines, we see that the first line is the same as the second line, and the second line is the same as the third line. This is a pattern that we can use to our advantage. We can use this pattern to create a new line that is the same as the first line, but is not the same as the second line. We can do this by taking the first line and adding a new line that is the same as the first line, but is not the same as the second line. This is a pattern that we can use to our advantage. We can use this pattern to create a new line that is the same as the first line, but is not the same as the second line. CSF and Honor Society are the two school organizations set aside for those students who earn A and B grades. To qualify for Honor Society a student must have a report card with all B's or A's and B's but no C's. Qualifications for CSF are a bit stiffer. A student must have a total of ten points according to the state wide system where an A equals three points, a B one point, and a maximum of one point is given for extra curricular activities.

Both C.S.F. and Honor Society members run the Snack Shack all year and are rewarded late in the year with an all day trip to San Francisco.

C.S.F. members also receive special privileges. At the beginning of each semester each individual receives a membership card which can be used in place of a tardy admit or as a class-to-class transfer. The card also allows a student to leave a study center after roll.

If a student retains membership in C.S.F. for four out of six semesters, he becomes a life member of C.S.F., which entitles him to be eligible for a scholarship and at graduation he will be entitled to wear a gold tassel. Membership pins are available for members of both organizations.

LANCE STAFF

The Lance staff began the year with one goal in mind; to make the 66-'67 Lance the best written and best overall paper the school has ever had.

The goal was to be achieved by not only reporting the news but also reflecting the changing attitudes of the students and teachers at Blackford. In the minds of the editors and reporters who devoted their time and effort to writing the Lance, the goal was accomplished with spectacular success. The staff hopes for a first place or at least a second place in the National Scholastic Press Association Standings.

Judo-the gentle way- is derived from the code of Japanese chivalry. Judo involves the use of balance and timing of the participants.

The sport is characterized by many rituals and courtesies: the bow to the opponent before and after confrontation, kneeling in respect to the instructor and other participants. Blackford's newly organized Judo Club is open to all girls interested in learning this ancient art.

LENGUA VISUAL

One of the main aspects of the Lengua Visual Club is to learn the culture, living conditions, and social customs Spanish-speaking countries. This year under the supervision of advisor Mr. Cluff, this club took a trip to the beach at Santa Monica. I went to see some films. They had a play in the showcase in December entitled "Las Posadas" Christmas in Mexico. They also made plans to eat in a Spanish restaurant.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club is primarily for students who are interested in Spanish. During the year members plan activities such as their annual Christmas party, take part in Pan American Day, and go on a picnic at the end of the year. Also, they take trips to local Spanish language films, live performances by Spanish entertainers, and to restaurants. Other activities are planned for fund raising purposes. One goal of the club is to form a Spanish Honorary Society which will conduct all business of the club in Spanish.

Dear,

It's been a lot of fun in Spanish and I hope that we got some classes together all year too. Hermetically we were so fun but I'm really glad that we were in the same class.

Have a great summer and love making things.
